TRANSFORM LEADERSHIP THROUGH EQUINE CONNECTION

Connected Balance™ is a state of mental, emotional, and energetic self-awareness that is possible when the heart, mind, and body are connected and aligned to experience the best outcomes. Feedback is a great tool to help achieve this state, however all feedback is not created equal, which can impact decision-making and confidence.

Working with horses is a form of experiential learning that helps develop a wide range of personal, emotional, and social skills through interactions. By creating a connection with a horse and engaging in ground-based activities (no riding), participants can gain insights into their own behaviors, communication patterns, and emotional states leading to self-awareness, improved relationships, and personal growth.

Since horses live in the present moment, they require people to be fully present during their interactions. This aspect of mindfulness is a key component of Connected Balance and helps participants become more grounded and focused. With their deep somatic understanding, horses read and mirror human emotions providing unbiased feedback in any situation.

EQUINE BENEFITS

Being around horses and in outdoor environments can foster a deeper connection with nature, which can be grounding and rejuvenating. It's also a great way to take a break from technology and the stresses of daily life to build personal resilience.

Whether you're looking to enhance your personal development, leadership skills, or participate in a unique team experience that's fun, an Equine Experience offsite can offer meaningful and lasting impact like:

- Communication and listening skills,
- emotional awareness and personal growth,
- empowerment and self-confidence,
- mindfulness and the use of presence tools,
- problem-solving and teamwork efficiency, and
- stress management and well being.

Walk away from this experience with new transformational a-ha knowledge that can be applied immediately to create positive impact in your life.

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

Horses are prey animals, so their survival depends on being acutely aware of subtle shifts in their environment, including human body language and energy. They can sense tension, anxiety, calmness, confidence, and other emotional states. As a result, their ability to respond to human cues in an honest, authentic way makes them powerful feedback partners during personal development and learning activities.

This unique experience is designed for corporate leaders, teams, and small groups of all ages offering a different perspective to the standard leadership, communication, and feedback exercises available today.

Together we will design your day(s) by choosing from a Touched By A Horse® playbook of 18 experiential exercises focused on key themes that are important to you. This customizable experience will be memorable, applicable, and fun, focused on topics like:

- trust
- self-confidence
- communication
- boundary setting
- teamwork
- leadership & decision making
- emotional regulation
- energy awareness
